

eSEED Resources

Appleton Public Library has print and online resources available to assist entrepreneurial endeavors.

www.apl.org/business

A good place to start: the eSEED page guides you to print and electronic resources useful to entrepreneurs.

Filter by your need: for example, 'sales prospecting' or 'benchmarks.'

Print items (books, journals, etc.) are available in the Appleton Public Library building. Online resources are available 24/7 with your Library Card. State and Federal government websites are free and open to all.

This page lists all the electronic resources for which the Library has purchased access for its cardholders. These resources that otherwise would cost a great deal of money are free to you with your Library Card.

This eLibrary page lists all of the Library's electronic resources. You will find more than just business databases at www.apl.org/e, so be sure to use the filter to more quickly find what you need.

www.apl.org/e/full contains full descriptions of what is included in each database; you can also filter by 'business' to only see business-related resources. Link to this page at the top of www.apl.org/e ("View a list with full descriptions").

Getting a Library Card

Wisconsin residents may get a free library card for any Wisconsin library system* with photo ID and official proof of your current Wisconsin address. If the address on your driver's license or state ID is current, that's all we need to see.

*Appleton is part of the OWLS library system (Outagamie Waupaca Library System).
